Children's Book Sale

Hey Parents, Grandparents and Kids of any age! Do you enjoy exploring the natural world through books and pictures? Maybe you love a fantasy story which stretches your imagination as you picture characters and events. Reading about real events, people and the historical past may be fascinating to you, or you might rather read about kids similar to yourself who have real problems they must solve.

All of these types of books and more are available to fulfill your reading interests and desires at the summer Children's Book Sale. Hundreds of cherished, gently used intermediate and primary children's books will be for sale at reasonable prices. Also, as many other people have donated their books for you to purchase, would you consider donating some of your books for other children to purchase? Think of books you have that you do not look at or read anymore. Donate them to the library so some other child can purchase them.

President's Letter

With this issue, I want to introduce some new members of the Friends of the Library (FOL) Board. The picture on page 8 was taken at the November 2013 Friends meeting and election of officers. The new board members are depicted here as well as some old board members. And by old, I mean old.

The new officers are: Candace Boynton, elected as VP of the organization, and Barbara Martin, Newsletter Editor.

Candace compiles the list of members that are honored with a book for contributions of $25 or more and for any amount of volunteer labor.

Barbara, as you can discern from recent issues of this letter, is new to the editor profession. We all help.

The other folks pictured are re-elected officials. Besides myself, there is Marjorie Malone in charge of coordinating volunteer services to homebound library users. The volunteers deliver books to the homebound individual. We now have about eleven individuals residing throughout Boone County. If you know of a potential candidate, let me know. We can perhaps help provide some library services.

Alice Smith is the person you deal with most frequently. She writes all those thank you messages you receive in the mail, signed by management.

Jackie Hern is our Treasurer and gives close attention to the inflows and outflows.

Shirley Copeland is Secretary of the organization, thus records all minutes and writes letters. She takes care of most written communications.

Mary Wright leads a group of investigators. They investigate all donated books, categorize and price. They call themselves the "Book Sleuths". Without the Book Sleuths, our book sales wouldn't be the professional operations our customers have come to expect, and we wouldn't have the revenue to provide as much library support.

Candace Boynton and Barbara Martin have replaced Kathryn Crunkleton and Chris Posterick, respectively. Kathryn and Chris have served this organization well for many years and continue to participate. We owe them much and can only repay in gratitude.

There are other members of the FOL Board that aren't mentioned herein, but will be introduced in future letters.

A Potentially Interesting List of Reads

As is sometimes the case, The Wall Street Journal publishes a list of “bibles” on a particular subject. These are compiled by aficionados or experts in the field and are considered “must reads” though not necessarily “best sellers” -- except perhaps to college students.

The most recent list of eight is about war -- military manuals. They are:

The Illiad by Homer covers the Trojan War. (Adult Non-Fiction 883.01 HOMER)

History of Peloponnesian War by Thucydides has Sparta and Athens as opponents. (The Great Books of Reading & Discussions Program : third series, vol. 2. Adult Nonfiction 808.8 GREAT)

On War by Carl von Clausewitz is a classic military strategy handbook. (The Great Books of Reading & Discussion Program : third series, vol. 2. Adult Nonfiction 808.8 GREAT)

War and Peace by Tolstoy covers Napoleon’s aggression on Russia. (Adult Fiction F TOLSTOY)

All Quiet on the Western Front by Remarque is set during WWI. (Adult Fiction F REMARQUE)

A Farwell to Arms by Hemingway is also set during WWI. (Adult Fiction F HEMINGWAY)

Slaughterhouse Five by Kurt Vonnegut jumps forward a few years to WWII and the bombing of Dresden. (Adult Fiction F VONNEGUT)

The Things They Carried by Tim O’Brien is a collection of short stories about soldiers in the Vietnam War. (Adult Fiction F O’BRIEN)

I remember having read at least half of this list or perhaps what I remember is viewing video. I forget which. All of these books are available for checkout at the Boone County Library: the library section and the call numbers are listed in parenthesis. I know I will pick up On War and The Things They Carried, if available, at our next book sale.

Hope this list intrigues you, also.
