Dress Your Best: the Complete Guide to Finding the Style That's Right for Your Body
by Clinton Kelly and Stacey London

I absolutely LOVE this book! Clinton and Stacy help people deal with their body image from the inside out. They help them feel better about themselves, as well as help them find the clothes that look best on them. They don't just cover it up with a temporary fix and surgery. I think this book would be handy to add to our young adult collection so that our kids could get some ideas on how to "dress for success".

Lonely Planet Signspotting 2: The World's Most Absurd Signs
By Doug Lansky

I really like to travel, and just recently I took a mission trip with my church to Michigan and we came across some very funny road signs along the way. I think this book would be very interesting to read, and I know it's a great book for all you travel lovers out there!

Making Natural Hoof Care Work for You
by Pete Ramey

I chose this book on behalf of Babe & Fudley, a horse & mule. They are quite lovable, totally spoiled and the hardly-est working members of our family. We can rarely get a farrier to visit our neck of the woods and Babe, being an Arab, needs more consistent hoof care. I purchased a copy of this book for my family and hope it will be a help to our horse-loving patrons.

The Steam in Our Engine

It goes without saying that the success of our book sales depends largely upon the help we get beforehand in setting them up and afterwards in closing them down. In addition to our hard working book sleuths and our wonderful book donors, we want to thank the following volunteers who made our last children's book sale so organized, enticing and successful. We could not have done it without their generous time and energy.
